Thanks for downloading this FREE small e-book – HAPPY READING 😊

Fiction short story for you enjoyment.

Characters in this book are fictional, including names, location, and plot

It was an exceptionally sunny day in California; Betty woke up bright and energetic in her glorious Mountain View beach penthouse apartment. She happily looked outside her window, glanced at the beautiful restful Mountain View as usual, and also at her brand new Porsche car, sitting in the marble tiles car park. Betty was extremely proud of herself; she had finally bought the Car of her dreams. She was living her dream life in Hollywood, earning a handsome 6 figures pay check as a top TV executive – a job she thoroughly enjoyed that gave her endless opportunities to mingle with all the top stars in the world. How glorious – this Car drives like a plane; Betty thought to herself as she cruised down Sunset Boulevard in her new Porsche to pick up Tony, her fiancée of 3 years who genuinely loved her to bits. All was set for Betty and Tony, a wonderful life in the future – a private wedding reception all under plan the following summer, with guests and family coming from all over the states and beyond. What more could Betty possibly ask for? she had everything going for her. Let's visit Trendy Spots this Saturday night Tony with Mick and Karen, Betty sighed, were bound to have a great time till day break.....

But deep down – in Betty's heart, all was not well, Betty constantly thought to herself, what is the meaning of life? What am I existing for?, she had the Car, a beautiful penthouse, a driver, 2 cooks and 2 cleaners, 3 great brothers and sister, Tony who idolised her, a great fulfilling TV career, 6 properties around the world, Betty had travelled extensively around the world, sun bathed on the finest beaches, YET, deep down in Betty's heart, all was not well, what's the meaning of life?, Betty constantly thought, I have everything imaginable, money, pleasure, love, yet there is something still missing in my life, Betty pondered to herself daily. What else am I searching for in life? Betty questioned; mostly when alone. She certainly wasn't depressed, far from it – she genuinely loved life, adventure, and all she had finally desired as a child had seemingly come to past, particularly her love and commitment to Tony and her devoted stream of friends. She simply knew that something was still possibly missing.

Dear precious Reader, do you sometimes feel like Betty, you may not be as wealthy as she is, do you often think once I get that dream Job, dashing girlfriend/boyfriend and all the money in the bank, with no debts nor worries, I will be the most happiest person in the world?, do you sometimes admire the stars, the rich and famous, and think that's the ultimate dream and fulfilment on earth? Do you even think, once I get free from debt, sicknesses, depression, lack of progress, I would be fulfilled?
